American inflation remains resilient, leading the Fed to adopt a more hawkish tone<sup>1</sup>, seemingly depriving equity markets of their traditional "Christmas rally."<sup>2</sup> The MSCI World Index declined by -0.7% in December, and the S&P 500 fell by -0.3%. However, these indices posted excellent performances for the year 2024 (+26.7% and +33.6%, respectively)<sup>3</sup>. In Europe, despite persistently weak PMI<sup>4</sup> data and political instability, the Eurostoxx benefited from hopes of a Chinese recovery and from the ECB's more accommodative stance. The European index outperformed the global index in December with a +1.3% gain (up +9.3% over 2024)<sup>3</sup>. Hopes of a Chinese recovery boosted consumer goods in December (+6.6%)<sup>3</sup> and revitalized the automotive sector (+4.0% for the month and -12.1% for the year)<sup>3</sup>. The increase in European sovereign yields, following the U.S. trend, benefited banks (+4.9%)<sup>3</sup> and negatively impacted highly leveraged sectors such as telecom (-3.9%) and real estate (-5.8%)<sup>3</sup>.

This market context favored the Growth<sup>5</sup> style, which rose by +2.4%<sup>3</sup>, while the Value style<sup>6</sup> gained only +1.1%<sup>3</sup>. For the year 2024 in the Eurozone, Growth outperformed the market with an +11.0% gain (versus +8.4% for Value)<sup>3</sup>. With a PE<sup>7</sup> ratio of 21.3x for Growth compared to 9.9x for Value, the valuation premium of Growth over Value slightly decreased during the month (from 119% to 115%)<sup>8</sup>. This premium remains near historical highs, and we continue to believe it will normalize through both a de-rating of Growth sectors (similar to what the luxury sector's experienced in 2024) and a re-rating of certain Value sectors (notably financials, as observed recently).

R-co Conviction Equity Value Euro gained +0.9% in December and +2.4% for the year 2024<sup>9</sup>. The allocation effect was unfavorable due to the outperformance of Growth sectors (luxury and, to a lesser extent, technology) and the underperformance of real estate. This was partially offset by strong performances from some of our top convictions, such as TechnipEnergies (+10.5%), Société Générale (+8.2%), and KBC Group (+9.2%)<sup>10</sup>.

During the month, we continued to increase our position in TechnipEnergies, which has become one of the portfolio's strongest convictions. This engineering, design, and infrastructure construction company in the oil and gas services sector is expected to benefit from secular trends in the necessary transformation of the global energy system. In the short term, it could capitalize on the lifting of the U.S. LNG moratorium by the new Trump administration. We also made adjustments in the Utilities sector, selling our position in Engie. The French energy provider has so far been relatively unaffected by political disruptions in France despite its significant domestic exposure (~45% of revenues)<sup>11</sup>. This sale allowed us to strengthen our positions in RWE and EDP, which had been adversely affected by U.S. election-related fears of a potential rollback of the IRA on renewables. We remain relatively confident on this issue due to the growing demand for electricity in the U.S. Finally, these two companies are exposed to electricity and gas prices in Europe, and we maintain our constructive view adopted over a year ago regarding the ongoing reorganization of gas markets on the continent.

The risk indicator assumes that you hold the product for 5 years. The actual risk may be very different if you opt to exit before maturity, and you may get less in return. We have classified this product in risk class 5 out of 7, which is between medium and high risk and mainly reflects its positioning on the Eurozone equity market. In other words, the potential losses linked to the product's future results are between medium and high, and if the situation were to deteriorate on the markets, it is likely that our ability to pay you would be affected. As this product does not provide market protection or a capital guarantee, you could lose all or part of your investment.

Figures provided relate to previous years. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance and is not constant over time. The value of investments and the income derived from them may vary both upwards and downwards, and is not guaranteed. The value of investments and the income derived from them may vary both upwards and downwards, and is not guaranteed. It is therefore possible that you may not recover the amount originally invested. Exchange rates variation may increase or decrease the value of the investments and the resulting income when the reference currency of the UCI is different from the currency of your country of residence. UCIs whose investment policy is aimed more specifically at specialised markets or sectors (such as emerging markets) are generally more volatile than common and diversified allocation funds. For a volatile mutual fund, the fluctuations may be particularly large, and the value of the investment may therefore fall sharply. The performances presented do not take into account any fees and commissions received on the subscription and redemption of units or shares of the UCI herein. The portfolios, products or securities presented are subject to market fluctuations and no guarantee can be given as to their future development.
